THE WEEK IN SOCIETY.

Although the leaders of fashion are still out of town and will not return except for transient visits before the second week of November, yet within the last week a marvellous change has come over the aspect of the fashionable districts in town, and the streets which have been for several months deserted are beginning to show signs of life and activity. Delmonico's is thronged nearly every evenwith well-known people just returned from abroad or in town for a few days from their counhomes, to arrange for their city residences during the coming winter season. A few more weeks and Lenox and Newport houses will be closed, and the gayeties will be transferred to Tuxedo, the country clubs at Westchester, Orange and Long pland, and other places near the city. The trial races of the cup defenders have tempted many people from their retreats in the mountains and along shore, and naturally considerable interest is evinced by a large part of the fashionable world in the performances of the competing craft, On Thursday, performances of the competing craft. On Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Gardner and Mrs. W. P. Wa and again Yesterday, the New-York Yacht Club's H. Gibson. steamer Taurus went to sea with a goodly representation of men and women, who, supplied with comforts and conveniences that John Van Schaick Oddie could provide or suggest, enjoyed the races over the deep sea course, and returned to town in the evening more enthusiastic yachtsmen than they were when they started in the morning. The formal race on September 28 will doubtless sum mon a great crowd to town.

Newport, although less gay than it was fortnight ago, is far from being the dull place some accounts picture it. There have been no dances save those at the Casino, but there has been no dearth of dinner parties, luncheons, coaching parties and general entertainments at the cottages, such as come at this period of the season. The dance given on board the yacht Nourmahal by Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor was a particularly happy incident, and one which was enjoyed by the young gay element. The golf games and the ladies' lawn tennis tournament claimed the attention of the cottagers and visitors, but it must be consed the most interested spectators were assem bled around the Casino courts, where there was some excellent playing by Miss Tailer and Mrs. John Jacob Astor. Small dances were given by Mrs. H. Mortimer Brooks and Mrs. Philip Kearmy, and Mrs. Charles M. Oeirichs, James J. Van Alen, Mrs. Henry Clews, Mrs. E. N. Tailer, Mrs. H. Baldwin, Herbert D. Robbins, Mrs. E. R. Wharton and Mrs. Frederic d'Hauteville entertained large dinner parties. Thomas F. Cushing had the public coach on Wednesday, when his guests were Miss Hunnewell, Miss Edith Cushing, F. Brockholst Cutting and William Cutting. Perry Belmont on Tuesday gave a luncheon at By-the-Sea in honor of M. and Mme. Forain, when his guests included and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt, Prince Poniatowski and Oliver H. P. The entire party after luncheon walked over to Marble House, and were conducted over the house by Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt, who have closed their palatial home for the season. They intend to sail for Europe in a short time on the Vallant, and expect to remain abroad for a couple of years. Some of the visitors at Newport at present include Mr. and Mrs. Richard Irvin, who are the guests of Mrs. William Duer; Mr. and Mrs. Orme Wilson, who are at the Beechwood, the guests of Mrs. Astor, and Mrs. John R. Brady and Mrs. Sidney Harris, guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Albert Stevens. Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge T. Gerry. who are in the Adirondacks for the rest of the season, have leased the Hodgson villa, Linden hurst, in Bellevue-ave., for the season of 1894. The death of Charles H. Berryman at Newport or Wednesday was a great shock to his family and friends, who, while they knew that he was in feeble health, were entirely unprepared for his death. Mr. Berryman was well known in New-York and Newpert, and was considered the handsomest man in society. Mr. Berryman is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Lorillard Spencer and Miss Georgiana Berryman, and one sen, Charles Berryman. The death of Colonel Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, which occurred at Pride's Crossing, Mass was also a surprise to the cottage colony at Newport. Colonel Bonaparte had been a summer resi dent at Newport for a long time, owning Harison House, in Harrison-ave., which Sir Julian Paunce fote, the British Ambassador, is now occupying Colonel Bonaparte did not go into society much, but last year he gave an elaborate entertainment at the Casino, when his daughter was introduced into so Lenox has begun in a mild way the short fall season. On Monday Mrs. David Lydig gave a reception with music in honor of Mrs. Kay, and on same day the Misses Furniss gave the first of their receptions. Friday evening brought the bach ball at the Assembly Rooms, which was fa and away the prettiest and gayest affair of the ason thus far. The young hosts who interested themselves in getting up the ball-J. Searle Barclay. Anson Phelps Stokes, jr., Louis Greenleaf, Pierre Botkin and John Greenical-won gratitude from the phalanx of youth and beauty in whose honor it was given. The guests were received by Mrs. Henr Braem, Mrs. Frederic Neilson and Miss Furniss The "tub" parade was the crowning incident yes terday. Tuxedo promises to have an unusually pleasant autumn season. The cottagers are arrivling daily and nearly all the rooms in the clubhous are engaged for the latter half of September and the month of October. Tuxedo's season has no limit, and the clubhouse is even more attractive in the cool months than early in September. With the first turn of the leaf subscribers and cottage owners come trooping in from the various watering places. Just now signs of Indian summer are be ning to manifest themselves, and there are other evidences to be encountered along the pretty drivewhich betoken the approach of one of the most en-toyable seasons of the year. The annual ball is announced to take place at the clubbouse at the of October. In the mean time there is informal danc ing in the pretty ballroom every Saturday night.

More young married people than have been at Tuxe to for some seasons will be there this year, and many entertainments of a novel and enjoyable characte will probably take place before the holiday season arrives. There seems to be little prognostication regarding the coming season in town.

Previous to the Horse Show, which will open in the Madison Square Garden on Monday, November 13, and which bids fair to summon the coach ing and racing set to town early, there will be several weddings. On next Thursday will take place the marriage of Miss Sarah Birdsull Otis, to Prederick Edey, at Near-the-Bay, the summer home of the bride's father, James Otis, at Bell-As published in this column a fort night ago, Miss Otis will be attended by two brides maids-Miss Elizabeth Ray Delafield and Mis-Beatrix Jones—and a maid of honor, Miss Henri-ette McLean. Mr. Harriman, Mr. Abbott and the bride's cousin, James Otis, jr., will be the ushers. special train with guests from town will leave the rallway station at Long Island City at 19:20 o'clock, and returning leave Bellport at 3:20 6'clock. As already announced, the wedding of Miss Ada Smith and Alfred Kessler will take place on October 11, at the country home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Samuel Smith, at Ballston which is a short distance from Saratoga. The Rev Dr. Henry Y. Satterice, of Calvary Church, this city will probably perform the ceremony. Miss Smith's bridesmalds will be Miss Mary Fuller, of Troy, and Miss Christine Biddle, of Philadelphia. Another of the fall weddings will be that of Miss Elegans. Eleanor Duer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James G. K. Duer, and Joseph Larocque, jr., son of Joseph Larocque, the lawyer. The marriage of Miss Flora Davis, daughter of John H. Davis, to Lord Terence Blackwood, son of the Dufferin, which is to take place in Paris some time in October, will be a matter of interest to many people in society. It was announced a few days ago that Miss Anne Cameron, a daughter of Sir Roderick Cameron, had been chosen to act as one of the bridesmaids, and that Miss Cameron would sail for France within a fortnight. Among the latest engagements announced on Staten Isiand are those of Miss Hearn, of this city, to Frederick William Janssen, and Miss Aline Hoyt. daughter of Louis T. Hoyt, of Livingston Sta-tion, to Edward Jewett, son of Charles Jewett, of New-Brighton.

The wedding of Miss Anna De Lancey Neill. daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Edward M. Neill, and Waiter Eldridge, of this city, will take place at noon on September 20, in All Saints' Chapel, Newport. The reception and wedding breakfast will follow at Long Acre, the home of the bride's follow at Long Acre, the home of the bride's parents, in Beach-st. Newport. Late in November the marriage of Miss Mary Robinson Hart, to Lewis A. Paimer will be celebrated at the home of the bride's mother, in Central Park West.

There seems to be no reason why the balls of the coming season should not be most brilliant, as at no previous time has New-York had as many beautiful ballrooms. The lower ballroom in Sherry's establishment has been thoroughly done over, the ceiling raised and otherwise altered, while the main ballroom has been renovated and beautified during the summer. The Monday cotillons, which were organized by Mrs. A. Newbold Morris and Mrs. Philip J. Sands, and which were in former years given at Deimonico's, will this winter be resumed at Sherry's. There will be two cotillons, the first on December 4, and the second on January

THE STRICKEN SEA ISLANDS.

PROMPT ACTION ALONE CAN PREVENT AN OUT-BREAK OF PESTILENCE-THE GOVERNMENT TO SEND DISINFECTANTS AND MEDICINE.

Washington, Sept. 9.-Colonel Elliot, ex-member of Congress from Beaufort, S. C., reached Wash ington yesterday. He had a conference with the Supervising Surgeon-General of the Marine Hospital Service, and told a story of the condition of affairs in that part of the country which prompt ly secured the aid of that department and the co operation of the President.

Mr. Elliot brought with him a letter from Dr. Peters, one of the resident physicians who had examined the country in the neighborhood of Beau fort, and said that unless the Hospital Service took prompt action there was imminent danger of an outbreak that might spread disease and pestilence throughout the land. The whole coast was spread with debris and the dead bodies of animals. About the island of St. Helena the condition was particularly deplorable, the bodies of human beings being washed up or unearthed almost daily. Since the great storm of two weeks ago Dr. Peters has been called to attend to over 708 cases of malarial and other fevers, while bowel trouble, with a preponderance of diarrhoea, is almost epidemic. He said that it was impossible for the local force to take care of the sick, provide the disinfectants necessary and the medicine required.

Colonel Elliot also had a conference with the President, who this morning issued an order de tailing Passed Assistant Surgeon Magruder, with a force of officers, to go to Beaufort and tak charge of the work, and placing a revenue cutter at their disposal. This cutter, as soon as it can be equipped, will be started south loaded with dis infectants, medicine and sustenance for those wh are ill. Those who are well will be provided with food from other sources, as the law does not per mit the issue of rations except in cases of illnes where the Federal Government is in charge of the hospital.

The condition about the islands mentioned is frightful, and the air is full of putrid smells cause by decaying bodies, making the people extremel, liable to disease, especially yellow fever, should he pest break out in that neighborhood. The city of Beaufort itself does not need the assistance of the Government, and does not ask it. The distress is found in the neighborhood inhabited entirely by the poorer classes of colored people. There is plenty poorer chases of tolored periods where the work for those who are able to do it, for the rim played such havoe in the city that workmen I laborers are in demand, and good wages are paid to them.

John Elliot also made arrangements to-lay with being paid to them.

Colonel Elliot also made arrangements to-day we the Secretary of Agriculture for the shipment a large amount of turnip seed to to people of the Islands and the coast. This the only thing that can be planted now from the property of t his morning's papers.

It is hoped by the undersigned that the cyclone which Nowhere was its destructive power more felt Here, from all accounts, the consequent destruction and descintion were greatest. In the neighborhood of Reau fort fully 400 lives were lost, and the remaining inhab tants have, in an hour, seen their houses, their crops and their property washed and swept away, leaving them food less and shelterless and hable to starvation. The cry from that quarter fog help is most pitiful. On behalf of sufferers I am moved to make this appeal for imme e help. These people need money, food and clothing diate help. These people need money, took and constant and all who can do so are urged most earnisstly to respond at once to this call for help. Contributions can be sent to lighert Smalls, of Beaufort, S. C. Into no handscould they be placed with greater certainty of being promptly and feithfully distributed to the needy. In a case of this kind no lengthy appeal need be made. Thus the Vigilant beat the Jubilee 28 seconds; the Pilgrim 5 minutes, 24 seconds, and the Colonia, 4 minutes 1s seconds on the second leg.

Colonia, 4 minutes 4s seconds on the second leg.

There was lively work with the spinnakers on all the yachts as they went around. The first three set their spinnakers to port, but the colonia jibed her boom over to port and set her spin aker to starboard. Now it was a run of ten miles to the finish, and the yachts flew before the wind to where the black hull of the Scotland Lightship was hidden by the flect of waiting vessels which had assembled then to see the finish. The Vigilant was a winner now beyond all question, for she showed a speed in running which she had not done before. I shally the other boats have run faster than she, but they did not do it yesterday. All the boats had set belloon jib topsails, the Colonia being the last to do so.

yesterday morning with eyes looking full volumes. William Gardner, the designer, in a blue cloth suit and a white straw hat, which, after going on board, he changed for a club cap, followed Captain Ellsworth. Behind Mr. Gardner came Will jaunty air about him that was refreshing and greeted him in the most cordial manner. Crane said he was on board to see a race. He was not disappointed.

SOME OF THOSE WHO ENJOYED THE HOSPITAL-

Commodore H. S. Hovey, of the Eastern Yacht Club, followed by many fellow members, showed the interest they had in the Pilgrim and Jubilee when only a few minutes on board. There was an atmosphere of pleasurable anticipation surrounding the throng of persons who assembled on the Taurus at Pier No. 1, North River, awaiting the hour of starting. They had chosen this particular steamer for three reasons-to witness the race rom a good elevation, to avoid danger of seasickless, and to enjoy the hospitality of the New-ork Yacht Club, whose guests they were for the

The morning was perfect, and there were pleasng indications of quite as much wind as there wa Thursday. For some reason there were few ladies among the two hundred passengers on the Taurus, but these few had resolute countenances, for they had been told of rough seas and the possibility of another Southern cyclone awaiting them outside the Hook, and had determined to brave them to see the race. It was a quiet and observing crowd which filled the decks of the Taurus when she steamed away from her pier at precisely 9:20 o'clock, and went down the bay to Bay Ridge, where she picked up just twenty additional guests, who had come from their yachts anchored nearby, Between Owl's clead and Fort Hamilton, upon th right and left, the water seemed fairly alive with teamers, yachts, and all kinds of vessels, loaded lown with people. The sensation of this part of the journey to the Scotland light for many was the appearance of William K. Vanderbilt's steam Valiant, lying at anchor off Bay Ridge, ng with brasswork and white, gleaming invas-covered decks. There seemed to be few scople on this vessel. Mr. Vanderbilt, with a yachtcap pulled down over his eyes, lounged over the rail, while a group near him in neat yachting dresses of dark blue attracted even more atten-

The lightship off the Hook was reached by the Taurus and the floating squairon of vessels about 11:29 o'clock. The sun was shining bright and clear and there was a pretty fresh breeze blowing from the south, Excursion boats, the Cygnus, the eus, General Slocum, Al. Foster, Havana, Eliza Hancox and a number of tugs and a magnificent squadron of steam yachts were swinging about in the water a short distance away from the Scotland Lightship. The collection of craft, large and small, added animation to the scene, which was really a beautiful one. The competing yachts were preparing to come up to the starting line. As they sailed close to the excursion boats the hundreds of passengers on them rent the air with mighty cheers.

The race was started as soon as the yachts got on the line, the Filgrim leading the fleet and the Colonia following closely on her heels. The wind was not so strong as it was on Thursday, but there was considerable more "ginger" in the conthere was considerable in the Hostonians than on that day, when, as some of them declared after the withdrawal of the Jubilee and Pilgrim, there was no snap in the day's sport for them. The sail over the course after the yachts was without incident, but every man and woman on the Taurus followed with eager and hopeful eyes the performances of the craft.

Said a yachtsman on the Taurus: "It's a splendid racing day and this is a good race. The yachts have since the start had a good full sailing breeze, an eight-knot breeze, just the sort of one in which to try the racing qualities of the light-weather boats."

which to try the racing qualities of the lightweather boats."

The scene on the Taurus as the Vigilant crossed the line at the Scotland Lightship ahead of the dubtlee was one of intense excitement. Cheer after cheer went up from the crowd, and the whistle shricked its utmost. The scene on the water was beautiful and impressive. The steam yachts, scamers and tugs tooted their whistles, the sailing craft fired their guns and bells on the lightship were runk with vigor. The steam yachts at the scene were the Vallant, Conqueror, Vedette, lturne, Iris, Shearwater, Lagenda and Viking.
Among the sailing yachts present were the Fieerwing, Queen Mab, Alert, Hildegarde, with George I, Gould and party on board, and the Gitana. The linited States revenue cutter Grant also contributed to the din and noise at the end of the face.

e, uring the journey homeward the Taurus nar-Dufing the journey homeward the Taurus har-rowly escaped being run into by the tug Edgar T. Luckenbach, which when of the Romer Shoals blew out her piston rod and became unmanageable. Touds of steam rushed from the engine room of the tug and for a short time there was genuine ex-norment and suspense among the passengers on the Taurus.

Without stopping, matters on the tug mended, and she proceeded on her course up the bay, only to be called to the assistance of the agile Feiscen, which had suffered an accident and appeared to be sinking bow first. A tug stood by the Felseen until the arrival of the Luckenbach and the Varnoesse.
